Contents

List of Appendices i

Tables and Figures iii

Glossary vi

Preface viii

Structure of Thesis 1

CHAPTER 1 – Introduction and Social Context 2

1.1 About the Researcher – Some Autobiographical Details 2

1.2 Developing a Belief in Social Justice 4

1.3 Learning from a Visit to Africa 5

1.4 An Opportunity to Live Out His Values More Fully 7

1.5 Spiritual Development 14

1.6 Choosing the Research Project 16

1.7 Chapter Summary and Rationale for the Project 19

CHAPTER 2 – Literature Review on Values in Education, Citizenship Education and School International Partnerships 23

2.1 Introduction 23

2.2 International Educational Partnerships – A Critique 25

2.3 Values in Education 29

2.3.1 Importance of Values in Education 29

2.3.2 Ubuntu 33

2.3.3 Social Justice and Equality of Opportunity 37

2.3.4 Fundraising, a Contentious Issue 40

2.4 Citizenship Education 42

2.4.1 Values in Citizenship education 42
2.4.2 Theory behind a New Pedagogy for Citizenship Education 44
2.4.3 A Pedagogy of Touching Hearts 50
2.4.4 Citizenship education for Social Change 53
2.4.5 Sustaining Change 59
2.4.6 Pre-occupation with Social Change in Africa 63
2.5 Key Research Questions 67
2.6 Chapter Summary 67
2.7 Next Chapter 68

CHAPTER 3 – Research Methodology 70
3.1 Introduction 70
3.2 Methodological Inventiveness 70
3.2.1 Introduction 70
3.2.1 Other Research Paradigms 71
3.2.2 Taxonomy of Primary Research Paradigms 76
3.2.3 Grounded Theory 79
3.2.4 New Paradigm Research 81
3.2.5 A New Form of Scholarship 82
3.2.6 Action Research 84
3.2.7 The Research Methodology 90
3.2.8 The Emergence of Living Citizenship 85
3.2.9 Summary 86
3.3 Research Methods 100

3.3.1 Introduction 100
3.3.2 The Action Research Cycle 101
3.3.3 Participation and Democracy in Research Enquiry 106
3.3.4 Participants as Co-Researchers 110
3.3.5 Choosing a Democratic Approach to Research 112
3.3.6 Data Collection Methods 113
3.3.7 Ethical Issues and Protocols for the Use of Video in the Research Project 119
3.3.8 Data Analysis Procedures 127
3.3.9 Evaluating the Research 128
3.3.10 Methods Used to Overcome Bias 130
3.4 Clarification of Research Questions 136
3.5 Sub-questions 137
3.6 Chapter Summary 138
3.7 What Next? 139

CHAPTER 4 - Review and Evaluation of Two Methods for Analysis of Qualitative Data. How can the researcher validate the narrative and answer questions about the quality of rigour within the research? 140

4.1 Introduction and Rationale 140
4.2 Outline and Purposes of the Two Review Methods 142
4.3 The Manual Review Method 147
4.3.1 Rationale for Filming Events 149
4.3.2 Analysis of Data Capture 155
4.3.3 Making the Meaning Explicit 160

4.3.4 Talkback Records 163

4.3.5 Conclusions on Manual Review Method 171

4.4 Going Around the Action Research Cycle Again 182

4.5 The Electronic Review Method 184

4.5.1 The Process 184

4.5.2 Conclusions on the Electronic Method 194

4.6 Comparison of the Two Methods 194

4.6.1 Comparison of Methods 194

4.6.2 The Value of Using Both Methods 196

4.7 Sub-Research Questions 197

4.8 Significance of the Research Contribution 198

4.9 Next Chapter 201

CHAPTER 5 – Findings 202

5.1 Introduction 202

5.2 Data Gathered for Analysis and Synthesis 202

5.3 Emergent Themes 205

5.3.1 Values at the Heart of the Partnership 205

5.3.1.1 Getting the Ubuntu Going 206

5.3.1.2 Equality of Opportunity and Social Justice 213

5.3.1.3 Summary of Findings in Response to R.Q.1 221

5.3.2 Extending Participation and Democracy Through the Conduct of the Partnership 224

5.3.2.1 Introduction 224

5.3.2.2 Extending Participation in the Partnership as it Developed 225
5.3.2.3 Co-Research Participation in the Project 232
5.3.2.4 The Extent of Participation by Pupils in the Partnership 234
5.3.2.5 Summary of Findings in Response to R.Q.2 236
5.3.3 Touching the Hearts of Participants and Encouraging Them to Live Out Their Values More Fully 238
5.3.3.1 Introduction 238
5.3.3.2 Changing the Researchers' Perceptions 239
5.3.3.3 Examples of Participants Living Out Their Values More Fully 243
5.3.3.4 Learning That Tackles Stereotypes and Negative Prejudice 259
5.3.3.5 Summary of Findings in Response to R.Q.3 264
5.3.4 Summary of Emergent Themes 265
5.4 Post-Qualitative Checks 267
5.4.1 Corroborative Checks 267
5.4.1.1 Outline of Checks Carried Out 267
5.4.1.2 Interview With Christine 269
5.4.1.3 Interview With Gillian 271
5.4.1.4 Malusi David Ncgobo's Report 273
5.4.1.5 British Council Responses 274
5.4.2 Peer Review of Evidence 275
5.4.2.1 Meeting 1 – February 2008 276

5.4.2.2 Meeting 2 – November 2008 280

5.4.2.3 Meeting 3 – October 2010 281

5.4.2.4 The Value of Peer Review Meetings 284

5.4.3 The Work is Validated by People's Response To It 284

5.5 Summary of Findings 285

5.6 The Next Chapter 286

CHAPTER 6 – Discussion, Conclusions and Recommendations. How Can I Reconceptualise International Educational Partnerships as a Form of 'Living Citizenship'? 287

6.1 Introduction 287

6.2 Towards a Pedagogy for Citizenship 288

6.2.1 The Importance of Developing Shared Socio-Educational for the Partnership 289

6.2.2 Developing Activities That Touch the Hearts of Others 291

6.2.3 Promoting Learning That Tackles Stereotypes and Negative Prejudice 295

6.2.4 Frame Alignment and Delivery of Social Change 298

6.2.5 Raising Awareness of Social Justice 302

6.2.6 Fundraising as a Means of Providing More Equal Opportunities and Social Justice 304

6.2.7 Developing Activities That Sustain the Change Brought About by the Partnership 308

6.2.8 The Construction of Narratives by Participants in International Educational Partnerships 313

6.2.9 Summary of Pedagogical Protocols 314

6.3 A Model for Developing a Sustainable International Educational Partnership for Learning 317

6.3.1 Introduction 317

6.3.2 The Model 317

6.3.4 Purpose of the Model 326

6.4 Reconceptualisation of International Educational Partnerships as a Form of 'Living Citizenship' 328

6.4.1 From Living Educational Theory to Living Citizenship 328

6.4.2 Features of Living Citizenship 330

6.4.3 Living Citizenship as a Means of Embedding Citizenship Education 332

6.5 Recommendations for Government 337

6.5.1 Introduction 337

6.5.2 Increasing Commitment to Partnerships 338

6.5.3 Partnership Agreements 340

6.5.4 Guidance on How to Develop a Shared Language 340

6.5.5 Guidance on Activities That Promote Learning and Enable Participants to Live Out Their Values More Fully 342

6.5.6 Guidance on Activities That Challenge Values, Change Dispositions and Embed the Partnership 344

6.5.7 Integrating International CPD as a Vehicle for Social and Educational Change 345

6.5.8 Improving CPD Outcome Opportunities from International Educational Partnerships 346

6.6 Summary of Implications for Educational Practice and Recommendations for Design of International CPD 349

6.7 Reflections on the Research 352

6.7.1 Critique of the Research Approach 352

6.7.2 Issues Arising for the Partnership 356

6.7.3 Validation of the Research Project 359

6.7.4 Contributions of the Thesis 361

6.7.5 Post-Doctoral Ideas 362

6.7.6 Recommendations for Future Research 363

6.7.7 Personal Reflections 364

6.7.8 Influencing the Academy 366

References 370