Conferences as Sites of Learning and Development

Using participatory action learning and action research approaches

Edited by Ortrun Zuber-Skerritt, Adjunct Professor, Griffith University, Australia

Grounded in the methodologies of participatory action learning and action research, and drawing on the established concepts of the 'Learning Society' and the 'Learning Organisation', this book outlines and expands upon the concept of the 'Learning Conference'. An international team of leading action learning and action research academics demonstrate how application of the 'Learning Conference' concept can maximise learning opportunities and successful research outcomes, and resolve complex problems of personal, professional, organizational and community development and sustainability.
