I am a conscientious and dynamic academic with a passion for teaching and learning, supervision, and research. At the core of my values are respect, equality, transparency, and empathy. Above all, God is the anchor of my life. I believe I have been called to service to serve humanity by imparting knowledge as I also continue to learn through and with others. We are after all work-in-progress, the trajectory of which depends on our efforts, dedication, and resilience.
